

4th IFCA Freestyle Windsurfing

Judging Seminar 2015

The fourth judging seminar this year will take place in the city of Roses.

Roses is a marine and futuristic town at the north Costa Brava and gives the name to the Gulf of Roses, 35 km to French border and 160km to Barcelona international airport

The sailing club Gen Roses on the beaches of Costa Brava will host this years seminar from the 10th of April till the 12th.

The seminars program contains several sessions from mornings till afternoon about subjects such as freestyle event set up, judging, freestyle manoeuvres knowledge and event management.

On the final day there will be a written test, a visual freestyle competition judging test and an outdoor practical exam followed by a closing lunch with reviewing of the answers.

Brief history:

This Seminar was organized by the president of the International Funboard Class Association to grant official certificates to a selection of IFCA certified judges.

These judges get priority and are useful for events running underneath the IFCA such as:

The European Freestyle Pro Tour and the IFCA Freestyle Championship events for youth, Junior and pro kids. Next to that is it also useful for local organisers to work with international certified judges who follow the same guide lines.

Why is there a need for more judges:

Finding good judges for national and international events is sometimes not so easy.

With this annual seminar we would like to have a bigger contact list of international certified judges around the World for future events and to be able to provide contacts to local organisers and international associations.

Minimum Participants 10

Maximum Participants: n/a

Register before 30th of March

“The scheduled seminar will be moved to a new date if there are not enough participants”

For more information and YOUR registrations please email to:

Ruben Petrisie: info(@)rubenpetrisie.com